Description

You want to send files by email but when you click on "Send" your mailbox displays an error message because they are too big?

Here is a simple tool to send your files in another way. To do this, WeTransfer uses cloud technology, which means that the files are stored online, allowing the recipient to download the files to their own computer or phone.

Use

To use it you don't need to create an account, just follow the steps. You add your files and wait for them to load. Then, either you create a download link that you send yourself to your recipient, or you indicate directly the email of your recipient and WeTransfer sends him an email containing a download link. Your recipient then has up to 7 days to download the files. Please note: the link will no longer be active after 7 days.

In its free version, WeTransfer allows you to send up to 2GB at a time (to give you an idea, 2GB can correspond to about 1000 photos or 500 songs, but this is just an indication because the size of the files can vary depending on the devices, formats, etc.).
